Fund Manager Comments

The global economy is expected to grow by 3.3% in 2013 with the growth primarily being driven by developing economies. The developed world has started to show some signs of improvement as they gain competitiveness through lower unit labour costs with growth in the US and EU expected to accelerate going into 2014. However, the rate of growth in developed economies is likely to remain muted given the need for continued austerity and fiscal constraints on government balance sheets. Private sector spending and job creation is likely to be key in sustaining economic growth within the developed world. Developing economies face some short term challenges due to rising unit labour costs and increase in cost of living which is transpiring into social unrest as seen in Brazil and South Africa. At the same time, the Chinese government has been tightening monetary policy to reduce lending and reign in the property market. These challenges do make the short term outlook for developing economies slightly uncertain. However, we believe that these developing economies including Sub-Saharan Africa are well positioned for long-term growth given favourable demographics, the continuing trend of urbanization and relatively stable government balance sheets. Lastly, while capital markets have been jittery on talks of tapering off of Quantitative Easing (QE) in the US, we believe that monetary policy normalization would be a sign of robust underlying fundamentals and improving unemployment levels and should be viewed as a positive element of sustainable long-term growth.

Supply of global property has been very low over the past five years and demand is recovering, especially for better quality properties. It has become more difficult for REITs to find good quality acquisitions that offer value and their focus is on refurbishing or extending existing properties that are in strong locations. The increase in global bond yields are a risk for REIT valuations and financing cost, but the REITs that have a competitive advantage and well structured balance sheets will deliver stronger income growth and outperform in this environment. In addition, global REIT cash flow yields (FFO yield) and dividend yields are still attractive relative to bond yields and the Oasis Crescent Global Property Equity Fund continues to take advantage of these opportunities.
