Investment Manager Commentary

The key feature of the 2017 economic landscape was the emergence of a synchronized global recovery driven by improving trade volume as well as commodity prices. Against the backdrop of still-absent inflationary pressures, key central banks, like the Federal Reserve, were able to credibly signal a strategy of a gradual withdrawal of record monetary stimulus which prevented a rapid rise in interest rates. On the back of the improved momentum this year, the IMF expects global economic growth to rise to 3.6% in 2017 after 3.2% in 2016, and firm further to 3.7% in 2018. In the United States, an improving job market has supported growth in disposable income and helped underpin consumer spending. Tax reform plans recently tabled by the Republican Party have played an important role in underpinning the ongoing bull-run in equity markets. Whilst the hope is that by cutting corporate tax and moving toward a territorial based system, that investment and employment activity in the US would be boosted, as things stand the plans are unfunded and will over the long-term add to the fiscal deficit. Much of the Eurozone is now in a synchronised upswing following a double-dip recession in 2012 caused by the sovereign debt crisis. In Emerging Markets, both Brazil and Russia have emerged out of deep recessions. China has continued to defy bearish forecasts by maintaining a GDP growth rate close to 7.0% this year even while it structurally transitions to a more sustainable consumption-led growth path. The global economy faces a number of key risks. Most importantly, the normalisation of monetary policy in developed markets, in particular the US, may cause a faster than expected tightening of global financial conditions, which could impact market valuations and increase market volatility. China's high level of corporate indebtedness and lack of transparency on local government balance sheets also poses a key risk to the domestic economy and, by extension, the global economy too.

The South African economy continues to perform well below its long-term potential. Indeed, the challenging economic environment, poor governance within the State Owned Enterprise (SOE) sector together with uncertainties around the political landscape have all contributed to sovereign rating downgrades this year. South Africa's real GDP growth rate slowed to 0.8% year on year in 3Q 2017 after 1.3% in 2Q 2017, signalling that the economy still remains under cyclical pressure. Weak economic growth combined with declining inflation has seen tax revenues come under pressure with Treasury announcing a R50.8bn revenue shortfall for the current fiscal year in the October Medium-Term Budget Policy Statement (MTBPS). Fiscal tightening measures are likely to be introduced in the February 2018 Budget totalling around 1.5ppt of GDP, which could create further headwinds to economic growth and consumer spending. The slow pace of structural reform in the labour and product markets, combined with tighter fiscal policy and cautious monetary policy signal both short- and medium-term headwinds to the economy to achieve its potential GDP growth pace of around 2.0%.

Benchmark yields rose during the last quarter of 2017 after S&P downgraded South Africa's local currency rating to non-investment grade. This followed the poorly received Medium-Term Budget Policy Statement (MTBPS) which signalled that gross national debt would reach more than 60% of GDP by FY21. The South African Reserve Bank did move in July to cut the repo by 25 basis points to 6.75% but subsequently signalled caution about further monetary easing given the downside risks to the Rand. Amidst the volatility, our income portfolios have been very well positioned to provide downside protection relative to peers due to the relatively low duration of these funds. In this environment, short term increases in benchmark yields do provide us with important buying opportunities in order to maximize the risk-adjusted return of the funds over the long term.

Risk and Reward Profile

The risk and reward indicator:

- The above risk number is based on the rate at which the value of the Fund has moved up and down in the past
- The above indicator is based on historical data and may not be a reliable indication of the risk profile of the Fund
- The risk and reward category shown is not guaranteed and may shift over time
- The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.

The Fund may also be exposed to risks which the risk number does not adequately capture. These may include:

- The value of stock market investments, and the income from them, will fluctuate. This will cause the Fund price to fall as well as rise and you may not get back the original amount you invested
- Any investment in international companies means that currency exchange rate fluctuations will have an impact on the Fund
- The Fund invests in a variety of geographic regions and countries. It is therefore exposed to the market sentiment of that specific geographic region or country. This level of diversification is appropriate to deliver on our objective to generate real returns at a lower volatility for our clients over the long term.
